OUR POLICY:

To support such measures as are unquestionably for the good of Mason County as an entire community, rather than such propositions as are in favor of the individual interest, or of one section as against another. And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of the county as a whole.

WITH SILENT EFFICIENCY.

Declaring that the Republican administration has scored a real diplomatic triumph in negotiating the treaty with Germany, the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., says:

"Reviewing the terms of the treaty of peace that has been negotiated with Germany, we find that it secures to the United States all the rights and benefits of the Versailles treaty without involving this country in any way with the league of nations covenant and the entanglements and disagreements which would be certain to result therefrom if this nation were a member.

"This is as it should be. The league covenant was no proper part of the treaty of peace. It was extraneous matter inserted to please the vanity of an executive who, through impractical idealism or ambition, sought to force the league into the treaty in defiance of the United States Senate. The only proper purpose of a peace treaty is to settle the differences incident to the war. This could have been done and was done in that part of the treaty of Versailles which did not relate to the league.

"There is every reason why the United States should be and at the time of the negotiation of the treaty should have been a party to all the agreements relating to peace between Germany and the Allied and associated nations. The United States Senate was ready to ratify a treaty dealing with those problems, and so informed the President in the famous 'round robin.' The league covenant, the settlement of boundaries other than those between Germany and other nations, the adjudication of China's interest in Shantung—were all matters not properly a part of a treaty of peace with Germany.

"Those extraneous matters are left out of the treaty President Harding has negotiated with Germany. He confined his attention to the one definite task of agreeing upon terms of peace, and this he has done in an admirable manner. In the treaty the United States does not evade any responsibility which, from either moral or legal considerations, it ought to assume. It does not undertake to set aside any provision of the Versailles treaty. If other nations wish to go into a league, we do not oppose. If other nations wish to settle European boundaries, we do not object. If China shall be willing to accept the Shantung arrangement, there will be no protest from us. The whole substance of our position in those matters is that they are no concern of ours and we will neither approve nor disapprove. We leave them out of the treaty we have negotiated.

"President Harding and his Secretary of State, Mr. Hughes, have negotiated the treaty without any fuss or flourish. There has been no tooting of horns, no parading of 'diplomatic triumphs,' no sending of ship-loads of conferees to Europe. All the talk of 'secret diplomacy' has fallen flat, for the treaty is a plain straightforward agreement in no way in conflict with the Versailles treaty, and is just such an agreement as the Senate would have ratified promptly if negotiated two years ago. No fault has been found, no fault can be found, with this treaty. It assures to the United States all the rights it ought to enjoy under the Versailles treaty and avoids the burdens and responsibilities and dangers which that treaty created but which the United States ought not to assume.

"Though he has not been accorded that credit, President Harding has achieved a real diplomatic triumph, the importance of which will be fully realized as time shall demonstrate the wisdom of his course. Moreover, the result fully justifies the attitude of those Republican Senators who refused to approve the Versailles treaty with its extraneous provisions."

NO APOLOGY, BUT PRAISE.

Congressman Mondell, floor leader of the House, was fully justified in speaking in words of praise for the work of the present session of Congress which has adjourned for a four weeks vacation. Among the accomplishments of the session may be cited:

Emergency tariff act.
Immigration restriction act.
Budget system act.
Peace resolution.
Army and Navy appropriations reduced and army cut.
Treasury deposit of $25,000,000 for Farm Loan Board.
Export trade organization act.
Consolidation of Soldier relief agencies.
Federal supervision of the packing industry.
Act authorizing War Finance Corporation to issue $1,500,000,000 of its own bonds and to lend $1,000,000,000 for financing agricultural exports.

Authorization of extension of $500,000,000 credit to the railroads in order to tide them over the present situation.

The record is one that needs no apology and which will compare favorably with legislation enacted by any Democratic Congress within the same period of time.

UNCLE TED'S
BED-TIME STORIES.

Peace With American Independence.

"You just bet your life we are at peace with Germany, and not only that but we are also at peace without having been tied up with the world club and a thousand other things that would have happened to us if we had agreed to the treaty drawn up in Paris."

Jack was at it again, this time tickled to death over the fact that the peace treaty has been signed with Germany without the United States becoming a part of the world club.

"Yes, Jac," spoke up Uncle Ted, "we are at peace with Germany. The treaty, which gives the contents of the act of Congress of July 2, 1921, declaring the war to be at an end, has been signed. We are not a member of the world club, which would have destroyed American independence gained through years of effort. Our country has not fallen to pieces because of this, even though some would have us think so.

"When Congress convenes September 21, the Senate will undoubtedly ratify the treaty at once and then President Harding will probably issue a proclamation. What else could we do, kiddies, and remain true to the traditions of our country, which count more than everything else in the world? By this treaty we gain all the good points of the Versailles treaty, but we are not bound by those parts which would have forced us into alliances with nearly every country on the globe.

"There is as much difference between the treaty President Wilson signed at Paris and the one just signed by our representative in Berlin as there is between the meetings of the world club and the armaments conference which has been called by President Harding to meet in Washington to discuss some of the most important problems in the history of the world. We have gained through the Berlin treaty all that we won in the war, but have lost none of our independence. The world club idea is that a super-government may be created to judge world problems, and that each member of the club shall bow to its decisions. The idea has been proven impossible of realization.

"The idea of the armaments conference is practical. The six leading nations of the world will get together and try to reach mutual agreements regarding future scales of armaments.

WORK THAT TELLS

Plenty of It Has Been Done Right Here in Maysville.

To thoroughly know the virtues of a medicine you must investigate its work. Doan's Kidney Pills stand this test, and plenty of proof exists right here in Maysville. People who testified years ago to relief from backache, kidney and urinary disorders, now give confirmed testimony—declare the results have lasted. How can any Maysville sufferer longer doubt the evidence?

Mrs. W. A. Schatzmann, 605 East Second street, Maysville, gave the following statement November 15, 1916: "From the benefit I have derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills I have every reason to recommend them to anyone. Whenever my kidneys have been irregular in action or I have suffered with a weakness or lameness through the small of my back I have used a box or so of Doan's and they have always proven sufficient to cure the complaint quickly."

On November 22, 1920, Mrs. Schatzmann said: "Doan's Kidney Pills certainly do all that is claimed for them. I recommend them again as I did before when I publicly endorsed them in 1916. Doan's have made a lasting cure for me."

International problems in the Pacific, and such other controversies as now prevent a complete understanding among them. President Harding believes that the practical way to stop future wars is to settle peacefully the disputes that bring them about, and to limit the size of armies and navies, or the theory that unrestrained competition in armaments is bound to bring about war sooner or later.

"Nok don't think that stopping war is the only purpose in holding an armaments conference. Another purpose is to relieve the people of the world of the immense burden of maintaining armies and navies. If we maintain an army of 150,000 men, that means not only that 150,000 men are taken out of productive employment and the rest of the people—those who work at farming and manufacturing and keeping stores and practicing law—must work that much harder to support the soldiers.

"You mustn't think that I am condemning the men who go into the army and navy as parasites. Far from it. I have the greatest respect for the man who is willing to go into training and hold himself ready to be the first to go to the front in case of war.

"The point is just this—under present conditions, each nation must be constantly ready to meet an enemy nation, and the extent of our preparation must depend largely upon the size of the armies and navies of other nations. It would be follow for us to cut down our army and navy unless other nations did the same. If we permitted ourselves to become weak, with all the wealth we possess, we would tempt other nations to impose upon us or even attack us.

"What President Harding hopes to accomplish at the armaments conference is to induce all the leading nations to settle some international questions that are now in doubt and then agree upon a plan by which all the nations will limit their armaments so that there will be an end to competition in maintaining armies and navies.

"I am not at all sure that the nations can get together on an agreement, but it is well worth trying. We thought we had made some progress in civilized warfare through some agreements but when the war with Germany broke out, we found that the agreements were not kept at all.

"If we can get all the leading nations actually to reduce their armies and navies on a fair basis, we will not only reduce the probability of war but life from the people some of the load of maintaining an army and a navy.

"I hope you will watch the reports of the armaments conference."

"BO" McMILLAN TO SUCCEED
MORAN AS CENTER COACH IN '22.

Fort Worth, Texas, Sept. 1.—Alvin "Bo" McMillan, the nationally famous football star and 1919 all-American quarterback, will succeed Charles B. Moran, National League umpire, as coach of the Centre College eleven in 1922. It was learned here today. McMillan will play with the Colonels again this year and, it is said, will accept an Eastern college offer next season.

FOUR DOCTORS
GAVE HER UP

Through a Neighbor's Advice This Woman Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Kenosha, Wis.—"I suffered with a female trouble and at last was in bed what the doctors called inflammation of the bowels. Four of them said I could not live. A neighbor told me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me from the start. When the doctor came I told him what I had taken and he said, 'Throw my medicine away and keep on with the Pinkham medicine.' I did and it cured me. If more women would take your medicine they would not suffer so. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to lots of people and they have been satisfied."—Mrs. MARY KRAPSTOCK, 2704 Wisconsin St., Kenosha, Wisconsin.

When a woman is beset with such symptoms as irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, a displacement, backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness or the "blues" she should treat the cause of such conditions by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the standard remedy for woman's ills.
